

Google Form Explained

The Google Form link can be accessed from the QR code on the poster (See NeuroGazeFlyer.pdf) and is included in the email that will be sent to participants after our A&F Communications Request Form from UCF gets approved. The Google Form consists of the following yes or no questions:

- Are you 18+?
  - If participants click Yes, they will be directed to the next question.
  - If participants answer No, they will be unable to submit the sign-up form and will be presented with the following text: “Based on your answer choices, you do not meet the requirement to participate in this study. Thank you for your interest.”
- Do you have 20/20 vision OR wear contacts?
  - If participants click Yes, they will be directed to the next question.
  - If participants answer No, they will be unable to submit the sign-up form and will be presented with the following text: “Based on your answer choices, you do not meet the requirement to participate in this study. Thank you for your interest.”
- Are you proficient in English?
  - If participants click Yes, they will be directed to the next question.
  - If participants answer No, they will be unable to submit the sign-up form and will be presented with the following text: “Based on your answer choices, you do not meet the requirement to participate in this study. Thank you for your interest.”
- Do you have previous history of simulator sickness?
  - If participants click Yes, they will be unable to submit the sign-up form and will be presented with the following text: “Based on your answer choices, you do not meet the requirement to participate in this study. Thank you for your interest.”
  - If participants answer No, they will be directed to a Doodle calendar invite where they can list all their availability and email.

The Google Form will also include a link to download the HRP 502 form they will be rereading in person. Only the PI has access to the participants response to the Google Form and Doodle Calendar invite. This information stored on a password protected ISUE Lab computer that only the PI has access to.
